Law school prof honored by endowment

Two Texas Tech School of Law professors have been named Fellows of Banking and Commercial Law Studies.

Named were John Krahmer and Robert Wood.

A fund for the endowment of the Banking and Commercial Law Studies was initiated in 1987 to establish the professorships in recognition of the excellent reputation the Tech School of Law has gained in those areas.

The initial endowment contribution came from proceeds of earlier Banking Law Institutes.

Two law pros receive fellowships

Texas Tech School of Law professor J. Hadley Edgar has been named the first Robert H. Bean Professor of Law. The Bean professorship is dedicated to teaching and research of civil law.

The professorship honors Robert H. Bean, a retired district judge of the 140th court in Lubbock. Bean served on the bench from 1955 to 1970. During those years he presided over many major civil cases.

Edgar holds a bachelor's degree from Texas A&M University and a law degree from the University of Texas School of Law.
