

J. HADLEY EDGAR, JR.

The Editors and staff of the Texas Tech Law Review dedicate Volume 23 to Professor J. Hadley Edgar, Jr. Professor Edgar retired from the Texas Tech Law School faculty in January of 1992 after more than 20 years of teaching at Texas Tech School of Law, University of Texas School of Law in Austin, and St. Mary's School of Law. His accomplishments as a professor include Outstanding Law Professor Awards, the President's Excellence in Teaching Award, and the Judge Robert H. Bean Professorship. His articles and books, most notably "Texas Torts and Remedies" (1989), have contributed greatly to the evolution of Texas Tort law. In addition, Professor Edgar contributed his time and efforts to numerous social and community activities. Both as a lawyer and a teacher, Professor J. Hadley Edgar, Jr. has served as an inspiration and role model for colleagues and students alike.

THE TEXAS TECH LAW REVIEW IS PROUD TO DEDICATE
VOLUME 23
TO:

J. HADLEY EDGAR, JR.

&

ANNETTE W. MARPLE

FOR THEIR STEADFAST DEVOTION TO THE LAW REVIEW AND TEXAS TECH SCHOOL OF LAW